Importing Quasi-Drug in Japan

Quasi-Drug Import Applications are approved by the Japan Ministry of Health Labor and Welfare (MHLW), PMDA division (Pharmaceuticals & Medical Devices Agency).

PMDA requires only one manufacturer per import application. There is no limitation to the number of products that can be added to the application. Each application is reviewed and approved by the agency. Once approved, the products may be shipped under the IOR's license as a general approval. No additional applications are required.

PMDA requires only one manufacturer per import application.

Process

1. MHLW Pre-Notification - MHLW will review the Pre-Notification and determine what additional informational requirements will be needed. It will take about 15-25 days.
2. MHLW Lab Testing - COVUE requires the testing of all regulated products. Send us the product sample and COVUE will do the testing.
3. Product Labeling - Your product requires a Japan Quasi-Drug Label. This label must be attached to the consumer packaging before shipping. If the product label cannot be attached before shipping, COVUE is required to attach the label when the product enters Japan. COVUE charges a labeling fee to apply labels. COVUE will create the label as part of your product import application. The label will need to be included with the application.
4. Shipping Invoice - Prepare your authorized COVUE shipping invoice from your COVUEIOR account. The destination should be in COVUE's Facility for inspection before the final receiver.
5. Final MHLW Application - COVUE will consolidate and prepare the documents and submit them to PMDA. PMDA will review the final application and notify COVUE of approval.

The process takes about 8 weeks (60 days).
